Anamarie Reyes Kolden's practice is devoted to civil litigation of property subrogation losses in the areas of products liability, construction defects, and general torts. Anamarie is an important resource to Yost & Baill's clients seeking subrogation opinions on a variety of loss scenarios, including claims against municipalities, restitution claims related to subrogation matters, fidelity claims, juvenile claims, and issues which may affect subrogation recovery, such as spoliation of evidence. In over fifteen years' experience handing property subrogation files, Anamarie has reviewed, handled, or supervised the handling of over 4,000 files on every subrogation scenario imaginable. Anamarie is often assigned files in which investigation, evidence, or expert support are lacking. She uses her broad experience, research skills and creativity to evaluate subrogation potential in all kinds of losses. Anamarie also represents insurers in all aspects of large loss investigation and subrogation throughout the United States.

Anamarie has been a member of the National Association of Subrogation Professionals (NASP) since 2003. In 2004, she became one of the first attorneys to be awarded NASP's Certified Subrogation Recovery Professional designation, which involved passing a comprehensive examination on a variety of subrogation related topics. Anamarie has assisted in the re-writing of the Certified Subrogation Recovery Specialists (CSRP) guidebook. She has also given a number of NASP webinar and live presentations at national NASP conferences on topics ranging from small property subrogation to subrogation against governmental entities.
